

India-Japan Alliance

What is the issue?

\n\n

\n

- The rise of China and uncertainty over America's role in Asia is necessitating an alliance between India and Japan.
- It is important that India and Japan overcome the bureaucratic limitations and find ways of materialising an alliance.

\n

\n\n

What have created a need for this?

\n\n

\n

- The emerging dynamism in the geo-politics of the Asian region is increasingly creating the need for India and Japan getting closer.
- Rise of China - China's accelerated economic growth in the last few decades has brought it closer to the aggregate GDP of the United States.
- This has dethroned Japan as the number one economic power in Asia.
- The purposeful military modernisation over the last few decades has given Beijing the prospects to contest US military dominance over Asia.
- Also, the imbalance between Beijing and its Asian neighbours has grown massively.
- Uncertainty of US's role - The Trump era is exhibiting an unprecedented political turbulence in the United States.
- Trump's stance is uncertain on the US acting as the market for Asian goods.

- \n
- He is also uncertain of bearing the main burden of defending US's allies in the Asian region, including Japan.
- \n
- These oscillations in US policy make Asian powers doubt the future role of US in the region and the sustainability of their reliance on US.
- \n

\n\n

What lies ahead for India and Japan?

\n\n

- \n
- Given the above conditions, it is high time that India and Japan take the bilateral relationship to the next level.
- \n
- Although India has been firm on the “non-alignment” principle, decisions now are ought to be less by tradition and more by the demands of current developments.
- \n
- Despite the military exchanges over the last few years the two sides are far from a credible defence partnership.
- \n
- India and Japan should overcome the bureaucratic limitations and take forward the talk on defence partnership.
- \n
- This is more a prerequisite for any meaningful alliance-like partnership between the two countries .
