Israel's PM visit to India

Why in news?

\n\n

India is hosting Israel's Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu for a four-day visit.

\n\n

What are the existing India-Israel economic ties?

\n\n

\n

- Over the last 25 years, bilateral trade between India-Israel has increased from $200 million to more than $4 billion (excluding defence) in 2016-17.

\n

- Given India's large market and huge consumer base, the numbers are low compared to India's economic relations with other countries.

\n

- Currently, India is the largest arms buyer from Israel, trade is to the tune of approximately $600 million.

\n

- India signed a big deal with Israel in 2017 for procuring advanced defence system of medium-range surface-to-air missiles, launchers and communications technology.

\n

- MoU between India and Israel on the "India-Israel Industrial R&D and Technological Innovation Fund" was also approved by cabinet in 2017.

\n

\n\n

What are the significance of this meeting?

\n\n

\n

- Recently India voted in the UN General Assembly against recognising

Jerusalem as Israel's capital. Click here to know about the issue.

\n

- Israel Prime minister visit comes despite New Delhi opposing Israel's move to make Jerusalem its capital.

\n

\n\n

\n

- A 130-member delegation is accompanying the Israeli prime minister, constituting businessmen from 102 Israeli companies.

\n

- The impending visit clears apprehensions of a road block in India-Israel relations.

\n

\n\n

What are the areas to be discussed?

\n\n

\n

- Areas expected to discuss would be issues ranging from agriculture and water, to cyber security, healthcare and security.

\n

- The primary focus of the accompanying delegation would be to boost economic ties between the two countries.

\n

- Several MoUs are expected to be signed in the fields of oil, gas, renewable energy and cyber security, among others.

\n

- Special emphasis would be given to boost the tourism sector so as to make both India and Israel a lucrative destination for tourists from both sides.
