National Commission for Backward Classes

\n\n

- \n
- The 123rd constitutional amendment bill to provide consitutional status to the National Commission for Backward Classes secured parliament's approval.
- \n
- The Present NCBC is a statutory body, created in 1993.
- \n
- It's power is limited only to recommend to the government inclusion or exclusion of a community in the central list of OBCs.
- \n
- Also, the power to hear complaints of the OBCs and protect their interests remained with the National Commission for Scheduled Castes.
- \n
- After this amendment, NCBC will be able to enforce the safeguards provided to the Socially and Educationally Backward Classes (SEBCs) and solve their grievances.

\n

- The bill gives the proposed Commission the power to inquire into complaints of deprivation of rights and safeguards.
- It gives it the powers of a civil court trying a suit and allows it to summon anyone, require documents to be produced, and receive evidence on affidavit.
- It will be required to present annual reports to the President on working of the safeguards for backward classes.
- These reports will be tabled in Parliament, and in the state legislative assemblies of the concerned states.
