Fish - Lizard

\n\n

\n

- Indian scientists have recently discovered a fully preserved fossil sea-dwelling reptile known as the 'fish lizard' from Gujarat's Kutch district.
- The fossil is believed to be from Jurassic period, which lasted from about 250 million to 200 million years.
- The discovery adds to the knowledge of ichthyosaur (fish - lizard) from the southern continents.
- It is the first Jurassic ichthyosaur found in India. It has been found in Americas, Australia and Europe.
- Other Ichthyosaur fossils from the Crustacean period which lasted 145 million to 66 million years ago found in India usually in the form of teeth or fragments of vertebrae.
- It's the second significant fossil discovery in India this year.
- The oldest plant fossil in India, red algae from the Chitrakoot region in Madhya Pradesh, believed to be 1.6 billion years old was discovered earlier.
