Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces Treaty

\n\n

- \n
- The treaty was signed in the year 1987 between United States and Soviet Union.
- \n
- It required both countries to eliminate and permanently disown all of their nuclear and conventional ground-launched ballistic and cruise missiles with ranges of 500 to 5,500 kilometers.
- \n
- It did not cover sea-launched missiles.
- \n
- The treaty marked the first time the superpowers had agreed to reduce their nuclear arsenals, eliminate entire category of nuclear weapons.
- \n
- As a result of this treaty, superpowers destroyed a total of 2,692 short, medium and intermediate-range missiles by the treaty's implementation deadline of June 1, 1991.
- \n
- In 2014, United States has alleged that Russia violated the treaty and it has deployed the non-compliant missile.
- \n
- Recently, US announced that it is withdrawing from the treaty. USA Congress approval for the same is yet to be taken.
