Revenue Shortfalls - GST

Why in news?

\n\n

Revenue collections from GST still remain below the target set under the Budget 2018.

\n\n

How does the GST collections fare thus far?

\n\n

\n

- In Budget 2018, the government had set the GST revenue target for the financial year 2018-19 at Rs 12 lakh crore, i.e a monthly average of Rs 1.07 lakh crore.

\n

- The total collection by the government between May to October 2018 has been Rs 5.75 lakh crore, averaging Rs 95,870 crore.

\n

\n\n

\n\n

\n

- However, revenue collections from GST declined for the second consecutive month in December to Rs. 94,726 crores from Rs. 97,637 crores in November and Rs. 1,00,710 crores in October.

\n

- Thus, in order to achieve the year-end target, GST collections over the next three months will have to reach an average of Rs. 1,34,900 crores.

\n

- But the GST Council has so far taken more than 190 items out of the highest tax rate of 28% into lower slabs.

\n

- Hence, the pressure on GST revenues will persist and the government is likely to miss the revenue target.

\n

\n\n

\n

- The Council is also considering a relaxation in the GST norms for micro, small and medium enterprises.

\n

- It has planned to raise the annual sales threshold for compulsory GST registration from Rs. 20 lakhs to over Rs. 50 lakhs.

\n

- Such relaxations will also further reduce the tax revenue.
\n
- Even the other possible revenue alternatives for the government, including direct tax or disinvestment receipts, are unlikely to compensate the GST shortfall.
\n

\n\n

What are the concerns?

\n\n

- \n
- States' revenue collections under the GST regime have been uneven and a GST Council panel is examining inter-State variations.
\n
- The Centre is also bound to compensate States for revenue shortfalls for the first five years of the GST regime.
\n
- Thus the Centre should either decide to drop its fiscal deficit goals or should reduce its planned capital expenditure to compensate for revenue shortfalls from GST.
\n
- Also, revenue collections of GST in the month of November 2018 fell, despite the total number of returns filed that month hit a high of 72 lakhs from 55 lakhs at the beginning of the fiscal.
\n
- Thus, the higher compliance of taxpayers didn't necessarily translate into higher collections from GST.
\n
- Despite these concerns, GST collections seems inevitable for a
