

WLTF Banks

What is the issue?

\n\n

RBI specified eligibility criteria of projects that can be funded by WLTF

\n\n

What are WLTF banks?

\n\n

\n

- In April 2017, the RBI released a discussion paper on setting up of wholesale and long-term finance (WLTF) banks.

\n

- The objective of these banks is to fund long-term infrastructure and corporate projects.

\n

- These banks will fill the funding gaps which are left by the commercial banks.

\n

\n\n

What is the need for this new type of banks?

\n\n

\n

- The Indian banking system has significantly high percentage of non-performing assets (NPAs).

\n

- Recently, the RBI also identified 12 insolvent accounts, which are responsible for 25 per cent of the NPAs in the Indian banking system.

\n

- Due to the ongoing NPA issues, commercial banks are already wary to take further long-term exposures, thus creating a critical funding gap for huge projects.

\n

\n\n

How this banks are designed?

\n\n

\n

- The RBI proposes an initial minimum capital of Rs 1,000 crore.
- In the long term, these banks are funded appropriately to the risk in their assets.
- The promoter group for WLTF banks has deep expertise in appraising long-term credits and tackling associated challenges.

\n\n

\n\n

What are the issues with WLTF banks?

\n\n

\n

- This banks will be counter-productive for the commercial banks.
- There will be greater challenges for payment banks and small finance banks.
- The funds which are received by small marginal banks from RBI will be diverted due to this new banks.

\n

\n\n

How WLTF banks can be made successful?

\n\n

\n

- These banks can raise current account and deposits above Rs 10 crore as one of the funding sources.
- The best-suited source of capital for WLTF banks would be insurance companies, pension funds, sovereign wealth funds, international capital markets and long-term bond markets.

\n

- Selecting the right promoter group for granting the licence holds the efficiency of this banks.

\n

- Framing suitable financial structures for raising long-term funds would go a long way in making WLTF banks a success.
