Gandhi considered peace as an ethical issue rather than political. Do u agree? Comment

Peace according to Gandhi was a process of compassionate dialogue of tireless working across cultural, religious and political boundaries. For wider ~~and~~ representation and meaningful democracy peace was instrumental according to Gandhi.

Gandhian peace

Peace was the guiding light towards moral progress. Gandhi chose violence over compromise and advocated that non violence is superior to violence and forgiveness is milder than punishments.

India too as its foreign policy follows peace as it refrained from voting against Russia and stressed on dialogue rather coercive ~~coercive~~ actions.

Practising Gandhian peace

He proposed a move from egocentricity towards shared humanity. Without proper ethical foundation the political could not function democratically. Gandhi gave the precursor to the Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam phenomena which forms the bedrock of our current soft-power strategy.

Gandhian principles are being incorporated in school Pedagogy. The NEP - New Education Policy implements this as comprehensive development of mind, body and spirit. Through training of 3Hs - head, heart, hand. The link between education and vocational training helps in self-sustenance.

Gandhian peace fosters peace for self, country, world eventually the humanity.
