

Q It is imperative to go beyond the celebrations and look at the substantive issues dealt with by the constitution of India. Discuss.

↳ The constitution of India was adopted by the constituent assembly on November 26, 1949 for 'the People of India'.

↳ The constitution day is celebrated since 2015, It is indeed a historic day with framing of a constitution for governance and Independent India.

↳ Go beyond celebration.

↳ should encourage the level of awareness ss about the constitution.

↳ we should the fact that constitution is an integral part of our life, but the illiterate and Educated person also didn't aware about the constitution.

↳ Issues

↳ Unfortunately there is hardly any focus on the constitution at school level not to speak of tertiary Education.

↳ Educated people Broadly know that there is thing like fundamental rights

(Please do not write anything except the question number in this space)

कृपया इस स्थान में प्रश्न संख्या के अतिरिक्त कुछ न लिखें।

UPSC

Answer Questions in NOT MORE THAN the Word Limit specified for each in the Parenthesis.
Content of the Question is more important than length.
(Specimen Answer Booklet - For Practice Purpose Only)

उम्मीदवारों को इस हाशिए में नहीं लिखना चाहिए
Candidates must not write on this margin and we are largely unaware of the fundamental duties enshrined in the constitution.

↳ Way forward

↳ The constitution should get due recognition across the educational system.

↳ ~~But~~ it is imperative to go beyond the celebrations and look at the substantive issue. Where the constitution is holistic doctrine. Rights bring responsibilities with them.

↳ celebrating constitution day is fine but we should not restrict to symbolism. we should look at the substantive issue dealt with by the constitution or ~~addressing~~