

If Indo pacific is about Datta's new maritime geopolitics Eurasia policy involves the recalibration of India's continental strategy. Examine

The meet up call of the security advisers of the south asian countries is an opening for negotiations with central asian countries.

Indo pacific and India

Indo pacific is responsible for 70% of India's oil import and 90%
of trade volume.

India's outreach in the region is essential for economic development and security. The partnership with Quad and Blue dot network are testaments.

De-dusting Eurasia Policy

With the US retrieval from Afghanistan, India needs to fill it up before China does. The Moscow format must be leveraged to ensure stability in the South Asian region.

India could act as a bridge between the Arabs and central Asia. The Chabahar port must be used not only to trade with Iran and Afghanistan but also with Africa and Arab states.

It could extend our reach with Central Asia region economic co-operation.

Also, the ties with European Union must be strengthened by developing co-ordinated strategy for EU. The vacuum by Brexit can be filled by us by sought FTAs.

India can also benefit from New connectivity strategy of EU bypassing China's Belt and Road initiative.

India must strategically deploy plans to strengthen its Heartland - Eurasia and Rimland - Indopacific.
