Inclusive entrepreneurship today holds promise of an exciting & uncharted future for social transition in the country. Explain.

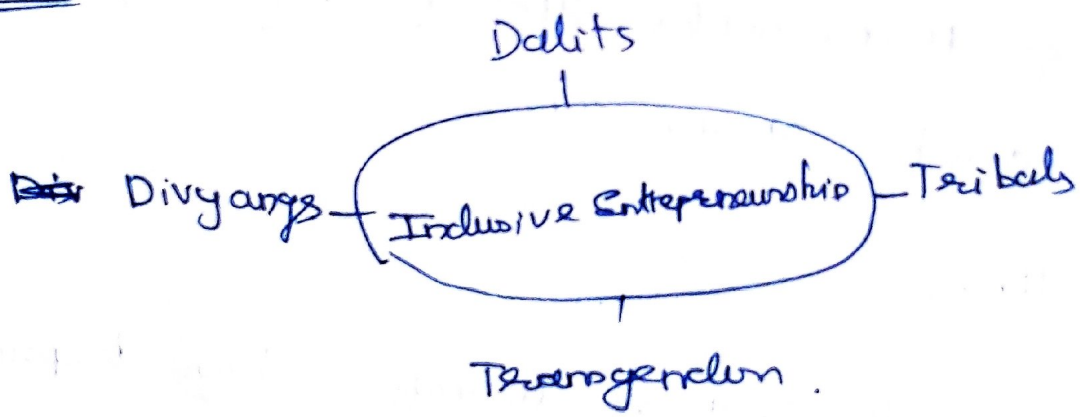

The Oxfam's commitment to reduce inequality

Index ranked India 124 out of 158 countries.

An inclusive enterprise can be a solution.

Inclusive entrepreneurship aims all people an equal opportunity to create a sustainable business irrespective of their background.

Primary stake holders

Path to social transformation

① Dalits - The Dalit entrepreneurship in the country is spearheaded by DICC - Dalit Indian chamber of commerce and industry. It facilitates the entrepreneurship among the Dalits

The ASIM scheme (Ambedkar Social Innovation and Inclusion mission) to create 1000 startups in 3 years is much needed to foster enterprise among them.

Also, the standup India must be leveraged to subscribe more beneficiaries.

② Tribals - Tribal Entrepreneurship development Program (TEEP) ~~aims~~ aims to increase habit of entrepreneurship among tribals.

many examples such as bamboo village model of Maharashtra, and Puttali export from Odisha among others.

Challenges - social stigma

low standard of living

malnutrition

high dropouts

Thus inclusive entrepreneurship encouragement not only ~~increases~~ increases their skills and position but also helps us to achieve SDGs
