

② In what ways the governance in the sports field can be democratized effectively in the country?

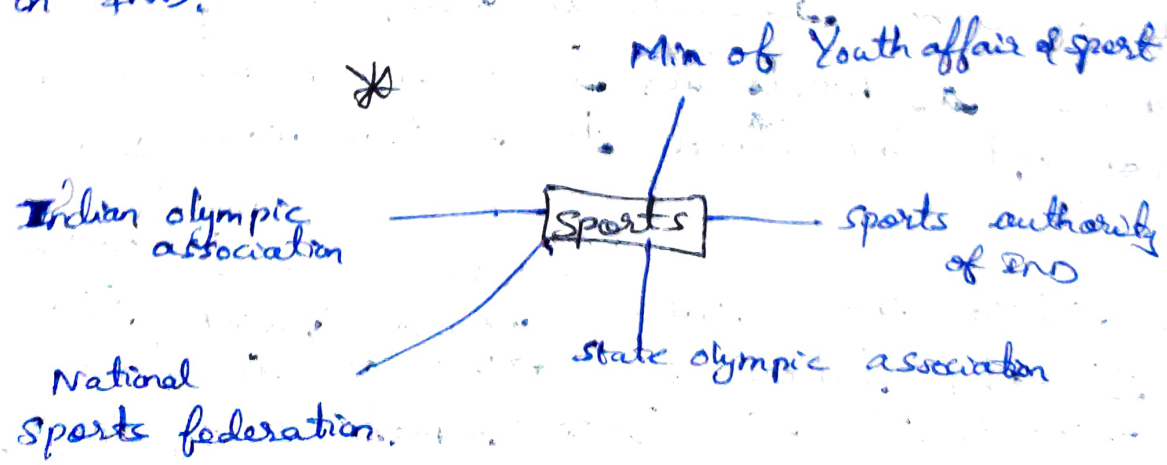

Introduction - Sports in India

INDIA is undergoing steady transformation but not necessarily translated into better performance across all sports barring Cricket & shooting.

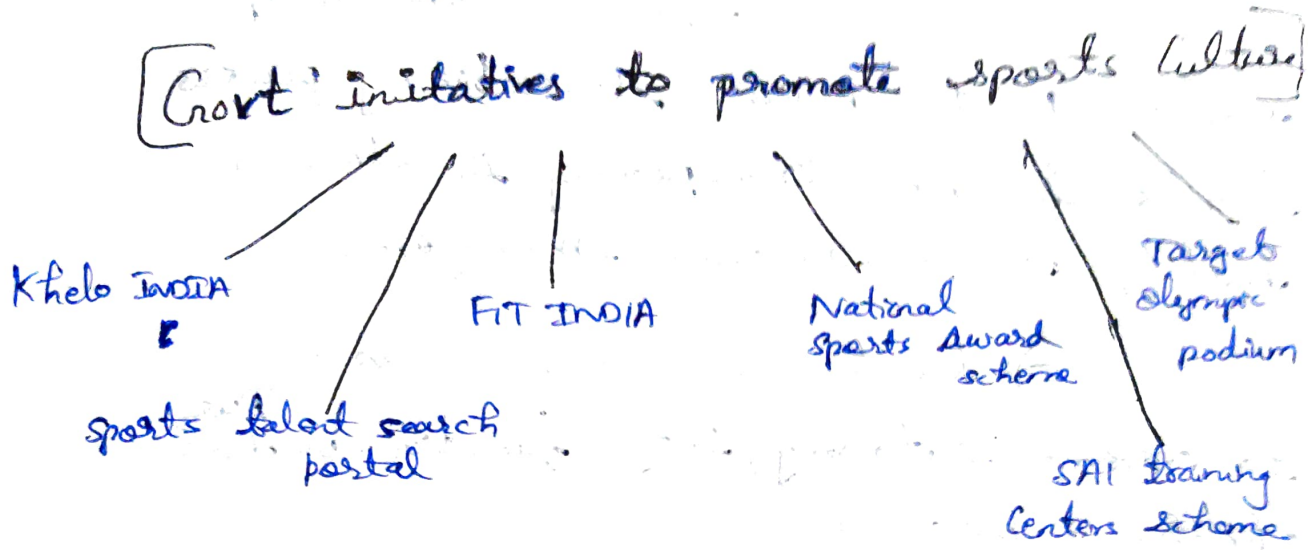

Model of sport governance in IND

* Ultimately (size of complexity) of sector is significant contributor to the governance challenges in sports in IND

* The estb of AICS to apprehend the decline of standards of sports in IND.

following stakeholders are responsible for Indian Sports governance.

Issues w.r. to sports governance in INDIA

① Lack of sufficient infrastructure

sports infrastructure is yet to meet desired level as it creates obstacles in developing sports culture.

② Performance enhancing Drugs -

Use of performance enhancing drugs is still a major problem which needs to be addressed effectively, despite creation of national anti-doping agency.

③ Inadequate professionalism -

Many Indian sports organization (governing bodies) rely on volunteers rather than ^{hiring} skilled professionals who are expertise in handling workload.

(4) Lack of transparency & accountability - Current Indian sports model, with more discretionary powers leads to no transparency in decision making w.r to revenue management.

(5) Lack of checks & balances - Due to extreme autonomy, they function without checks & balances.

Way Forward

(i) Infrastructure investment - Invest heavily in building modern infrastructure with best sports training & sports medicine.

(ii) Developing sports training hub - with immense coaching talent in different sports. India should develop a training hub for sports (eg) Iten, Kenya - Sports hub

(iii) Create sporting awareness - incorporate sports in children's everyday life which could boost their confidence in turn opens possible sports careers.

(iv) Demarcating Roles - Demarcating roles & responsibilities in each ^{sporting} organisation maximise the use of resources

Conclusion - with India's economy & youth population, sports in INDIA could achieve milestones by implementing these suggestions