① In what ways the governance in the sports field can be democratised effectively in the country. Explain.

FIFA has recently banned AIFF due to some 3rd party interference, and also prevented India from hosting the tournament.

Judiciary's view:

Court's made their view for inclusion of eminent athletes as members, right to vote and stand in elections. Autonomy to have their own way of democratic structure and decision making.

Sports code

India has its own version of sports code national sports code, 2011, to provide minimum compliance with the olympic charter.

Judiciary's proposal

Court has proposed to reform the Federation with nomination of 36 eminent athletes as members, 36 state administration and at least 25% from former athletes to as executive members

Though the courts decision is not the violation of Olympic charter, the issue lies with Identification of athletes according to the criteria given by COA.

Concerns.

Athletes are deprived from giving voice in the administration from their youth. They lack experience as an effective sports administrator.

Olympic charter has provided for minimum '2' athletes as members and '2' as executive members, without any upper limit. But there is a possibility of them becoming efficient administrators with equal chances of ~~not~~ opposite side.

what is the need?

work from bottom of pyramid with creation of district and state level committees.

Athletic commissioners at district and state level, for effective decision making

Quality of decision comes from the bottom which reforms the decision at the top level.

Proper training has to be given to Athletic governors and administrators of both athletes and non-athletes.

Ineffectiveness of International Federation and national organisations is the cause of concern.

So reform in Sports governance is the need of hour without <sup>which</sup> even the eminent athlete administrator will turn the tide.
